

ALL OF CORK AT YOUTH'S FUNERAL

Military Remains Close Within Barracks and Disorder Is Avoided.

CORK, Sept. 12. (By the Associated Press.)—The funeral of Seamus Quirk, a young volunteer killed in Thursday's disturbances at Galway, brought out every able bodied man and woman in Cork yesterday. There were large numbers of children also. There was an entire absence of disorder. The military, as on the occasion of the funeral of slain Lora Mayor McCurtain here last April, remained in barracks. Not a soldier was seen in the streets throughout the day and the only bit of khaki visible was that of a dozen men on guard duty on the parapet of the jail, which lies back about 200 yards from the road along which the cortege moved.

Whether by accident or design, the hearse and the funeral procession stopped for a few minutes at the intersection of a by-road leading to the jail, and all eyes were turned in that direction of the huge stone building where the hunger strikers are slowly dying.

The streets of Cork and the long route to the cemetery were lined with spectators as the funeral procession, in which probably 6,000 men and women marched, passed the archbishop's residence. Among the high church dignitaries and hundreds of priests and monks making up the clerical contingent. Men prominent here in every walk of life were among the marching band.

The only notes of color in the sombre pageant were supplied by the Gaelic lilted bands, with bagpipes and the fied drums, which played unceasingly the plaintive Irish dirge: "Wrap the Green Flag Around Me." Boys in the "Far More Sweet" and by little girls in vivid green mantles of the national costume.

Cider was well preserved by the volunteers. A squad of women fired a salute over the grave. The priest's brief oration at the graveside contained references to the hunger strikers and an expression of the wish that all Irishmen might have died as bravely as Quirk had done, and as the Cork prisoners are doing.

THIEF FRIGHTENED.

The thief who selected the home of Mrs. W. R. Lawrence, 296 Alabama, evidently did not figure on the occupants all going lightly. He was forced to make a hurried getaway after breaking into the home Sunday when Mrs. Lawrence awoke. A suit of clothes and a pair of shoes were found in the hallway. Nothing else had been disturbed.

Mexico To Be Oil Reservoir Of Half Of World, Says U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Mexico promises to become the oil reservoir of the Western hemisphere, the department of commerce declares in a review of the petroleum industry in the Southern republic. With increased consumption in the United States likely to exhaust producing fields in this country within 20 or 25 years, Mexico, the statement said, offers the most encouraging prospect to the American oil industry, both for present production and geographical situation.

Exhaustion of 40 per cent of the producing fields of the United States, the department's review stated, has caused Mexico to take second place in oil production, although only about 12 per cent of the potential capacity of Mexican wells is being actually produced. Oil exports from Mexico during the first six months of 1933 totaled 69,000,000 barrels, an increase of 72 per cent over the previous year. At this rate total exports for the year are expected, according to the department, to reach 125,000,000 barrels.

Development of the Mexican oil fields, however, is only in its infancy, the review states, adding that of the 23,250 square miles of territory believed to contain oil deposits, not more than 500 square miles are being exploited. Curtailment of production is being held by the department to lack of transportation and shortage of facilities and to the unsettled political situation.

Of the $350,000,000 estimated to be invested in the Mexican oil industry, including $100,000,000 in tankers, about 70 per cent represents American capital, the review says. About 27 per cent is British and Dutch capital, three per cent Mexican and other interests.

Twenty-seven companies are producing oil in Mexico, seventeen of which are American owned, five Spanish-Mexican, three Dutch and two British.

POLE TROOPS WARNED NOT TO HARM JEWS

WARSAW, Sept. 12. (By the Associated Press.)—The newspapers published the following order, signed by Chief of Staff Rawadowski, addressed to the commands of all the armies: "Headquarters is informed from various sources of complaints referring to bad treatment by our troops of Jews in localities retaken from the enemy. Though it is a fact that a part of the Polish population during the time of the Bolshevik invasion has been hostile to our state and has supported the enemy, we can not consider as guilty all Jews, some of whom, especially the orthodox, were even patriotic. The command of all the armies will immediately take steps in order to stop all excess toward the Jewish population. It is absolutely forbidden to attempt mass revenge for the guilt of an individual, and, if it happens, then the guilty must be tried. Orders will be especially issued immediately to the commands of the second and fourth armies in the Wykow and Sokolow districts, where we are informed there have been committed excesses."

Just skimmed another swell Camel ad! Stop this: Guess I've smoked a million Camels! Pete, they never tired my taste yet!!!! And, old socks, put Camels to the test! Then you'll wise up that Camels leave no unpleasant cigarette aftertaste nor unpleasant cigarette odor!

That's some smoke news, I'll say, when you're trying to fuss the "straight" brands! And, old shoe, you ought to know, they gave you a lacing!

What makes a dent on my disposition is that while Camels are the mildest cigarette and the sweetest cigarette any man can buy they've got all the "body" you ever heard tell of!

Why Pete, I've got as many new selling ideas about Camels as there are hairs on a purr-kitty's tail!

Drop your old lamps down here—hows that for blazing the joy Camels pass out!
